Life Sketch.

"Leaves have their time to fall
And flowers, to wither at the north wind's breath.
And stars to set—but all
Thou, hast all seasons for thine own, oh, death."

In the month of June 1875, at Willettsville, O., a beautiful soul was given to the world in the person of Everett G. Ridgway. For thirty years this noble young man walked through life, leaving blessings all the way, and then amid the June roses, whose beauty and fragrance he loved, he passed from his earthly home in Louisville, Ky., to dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

His was a most heroic spirit. From early boyhood he made his own way in the world, conquering great difficulties. With unflinching courage he ever pressed toward higher attainments. In the business world he made rapid progress, and by the integrity and earnestness of his life, gained the confidence and highest regard of all who knew him. For several years he had held a position of trust and responsibility with one of the largest corporations in the land.

In early boyhood he was converted and became a member of the M. E. Church. He regularly attended its services and during a revival in Hillsboro several years ago he received a fresh baptism of the spirit which has ever made its abode with him.

He especially loved the Sunday School and in his southern home he belonged to a Bible class, which he greatly enjoyed, and was one of its most faithful and interested members. He found much happiness in giving generously to the church and its work.

He was most happily married to Miss Florence Holmes, October 4, 1905. From the first there was a Christian home, where God was daily worshiped at the family altar. His home life was ideal, love and nobleness of character made it an earthly paradise.

To know him was to love him. "His bright smile and friendly spirit won friends everywhere. It was impossible for his great heart to hold unkind feelings. Always he was the soul of gentleness and usefulness; ever willing to make sacrifices for others, always glad to give help to others. His refined nature and splendid intellect made him appreciate and love the good and beautiful things in the world. He was always serene in spirit, believing fully in the care and providence of God. His life was so pure, his character so noble, that he was fully ripe for heaven.

He made a most courageous fight in battling with a malignant disease, he was always hopeful, cheerful and patient in his affliction. During his sickness, as the pastor arose from prayer at his bedside, he looked up with a bright smile and said "that is good medicine." Life was sweet to him and he prayed that he might live, but said if it was not the Lord's will, it was alright; during his last hours with no one present but his dear wife, they repeated the twenty-third psalm and together they lifted their hearts in prayer, after this he again told her that his trust was in the Lord. Sustained and soothed by this unflinching trust, he approached the grave, as one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holmes and Mrs. Ridgway desire to express their sincere thanks to the neighbors and friends, who were so ready to extend sympathy and kindness in their time of deepest sorrow and sadness.

"I wouldn't get so sore just because a fellow called me an ass!"
"Neither would I, if that's all he'd called me. But he called me a pig-headed ass, and I want it understood that I'm no side-show freak!"

Editor—See here, why don't you write a joke about this weather?
Jokesmith—You're got a blamed poor idea of what constitutes humor.

Editorial Symposium

Selected from the Columns of the Leading Newspapers of America.

Topeka Journal: Mr. Roosevelt set a good example to other Americans the other morning when he got up early enough—at his country home—to split sufficient kindling enough before he started to work to last until his return.

SURE TO ATTRACT.

St. Louis Star: A nation in which the President, who has been accused of being a fire-eater, and the Secretary of War put in their days and nights planning for peace is bound to attract some attention abroad, and the very attention of which all the people of the nation will have reason to be very proud.

THE GREAT ISSUE.

Pueblo Chieftain: The great question before the American people today is, not whether municipal or government ownership will accomplish this or that result, but, shall the American people govern themselves, or shall they continue to be governed by the degrading and universal corruption of public utility corporations that makes fortunes through purchased officials and a supine public sentiment and degrade and blight the moral standard and the public ambition of every youth in the land.

WORSE THAN HANGING.

Springfield Republican: It is bad enough for the state to hold a person within the shadow of the gallows for a considerable period of time, compelling him, as it were, to die a thousand deaths in advance of the real one. But it is worse to subject one to a succession of death sentences and reprieves and stays and resenecences. There is a refinement of cruelty here which passes the utmost of savage ingenuity—yet our civilization tolerates its infliction with every death sentence imposed. The woman in the Vermont state-prison, who for the second or third time has apparently been snatched from under the gallows, only, it would seem, to bring up there finally anyhow, is certainly to be pitied, even though she had no pity when holding a life in her own hands.

IT ALL GOES.

Cincinnati Enquirer: A good many of the Republican newspapers and politicians hesitate to accept Hon. Charles J. Bonaparte as a real Republican. What are they going to do about it? There was a sneering revolt against the selection of Cortelyou for the chairmanship; but it "went."

BROWNLOW'S PROPOSED STATE.

Washington Post: Representative Brownlow is reported as saying that he is in earnest in his proposal to make a new state out of portions of Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina. There is no pretense that it is to be a work of practical statesmanship, but it is avowedly a work of practical politics. The new state is to be created because certain communities vote the Republican ticket and are attached to commonwealths that are democratic in political sentiment. Reduced to its fundamentals—it is a mere vulgar matter of office—United States senators, federal judges, marshals, collectors, and so on and so on.

EFFECT OF PUBLICITY.

New York World: The Paper Trade Journal reports that the result of the prosecution initiated by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association against the General Paper company, the Western News trust, the Interstate Paper company, the trust controlling other grades, has dissolved, and the western manufacturers are rushing east for orders on all lines of paper. Prices are much lower for the consumers, and there are signs that real competition has been restored.

THE CZAR'S PROMISE.

New York Tribune: It may not be oversanguine to think that Russia is at last on the threshold of something like representative popular government. The czar's pledges to that effect on Monday last were the most direct, explicit and emphatic ever made by a Russian sovereign. Indeed, they could not have possessed those qualities to a higher degree. It is impossible to suspect that he meant something different from what he said, and it would be difficult to suppose he said such things thoughtlessly or without an earnest intention to fulfill them.

FIGHT CORRUPTION.

Chicago Record-Herald: The Americans Governor Folk wants for America are of the sort that will not be content passively and platonically to favor honesty and efficiency in public life, but will go out and "stand in the open" ready to fight for the cause of good government. We have an overabundance of people who are "against wrong." Philadelphia has had her share of them, yet till the citizens rose against the bosses scandalous corruption was rife in every department of her municipal government. Improvement comes through those who aggressively attack evil and place their time, energy and means at the command of the city, state or nation. It is charged with significance and cannot fail to impress and inspire.

AS TO FOREIGNERS.

Milwaukee Free Press: For a man that knows about everything worth repeating. Mr. William E. Curtis, an occasional correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, makes a peculiar break in saying that almost in the geographical center of the United States—meaning in Indian territory—there have been for nearly seventy-five years "five independent foreign nations," meaning the Indian tribes of Creeks, Choctaws, Cherokees, Chickasaws and Seminoles. It might be said that to call the people of these nations "foreign" is very good; but it is not. It is very bad. For if there is any such thing as an American, pure and undiluted, it is the American Indian. We wonder where Curtis came from, and how long ago it is since he—or his forebears—came.

RUSSIA'S ORDER.

Philadelphia Inquirer: The Russians were beaten because they didn't know how to make the best use of the instruments with which they had been provided. Their government had proceeded on the theory that big ships make a strong navy, and that the human element is a subordinate consideration. It was an error which has frequently been made before, but that it is a fatal one the result of the fighting in the Sea of Japan has once more demonstrated.

SELLING TO CANADIANS.

New York World: A recent number of the Canadian Manufacturer contained a statistical statement regarding certain imports into Canada in 1904 which, under the heading of "Agricultural Implements," included a list of twenty-one articles, valued at $2,934,594, of which $2,911,120 worth came from the United States and $21,472 worth from Great Britain, the imports from all other countries being valued at only $1,632. The United States furnished 98.5 per cent. of the whole class.

T. J. Sprinkle and Sons have moved to 112 East Main Street, four doors east of Merchant's National Bank, where you are cordially invited to call and examine our fine line of Pianos and Organs. Let us call your special attention to the Vough (Patent Changeable Pitch) Piano, which is one of the most marvelous inventions of the 20th century, something which has been needed in pianos since their existence.

Two Pianos In One.

The action is so constructed that when the stop on the key block is pulled out toward the operator, the piano is in Standard or Inter-National Pitch, and when the stop is pushed in from the operator, the piano is in Concert Pitch. To make this change in pitch, nothing is done to make a difference either in the touch or in the strain upon the strings of the piano. This marvelous invention was patented Jan. 9, 1900, by William C. Vough, President of the Vough Piano Co., Waterloo, N. Y., who make the Famous Malcolm Love Pianos and Waterloo Organs.

We have in stock two second hand Square Pianos and one slightly used Upright Piano that we will sell at a great bargain; also a number of second hand Esty Organs $5.00 and up.
